

A MAN'S SPHERES.

When man's a babe and has to crawl,
What is it that makes crazy all?
His bawl.

When he's a boy and full of fun,
What does he hit you with and run?
Snowball.

When he's a youth what does he play
To make himself and comrades gay?
Baseball.

When a young man and fond of girls,
What keeps him up all night in whirle?
A ball.

What sends a flutter to his heart
And fixes in it Cupid's darts?
Eyeballs.

When fond of poker, dress and smoke,
What helps him out when he is "broke"?
Three balls.

At college, at his pa's expense,
What does he learn to show his sense?
Football.

What takes his money every night,
And makes him swear, drink and fight?
Billiard balls.

What does his landlady, sedate,
Pass him each morning on a plate?
Fishballs.

When he is old and wisdom knows,
What is the proof of it he shows?
Head ball-d.

And then, just when he wants to stay,
What is it he must leave away?
Terrestrial ball.

HERALD HOWLINGS.

A kiss is the way hearts shake hands.

It is no slur on a grocer to say he has no sand.

No thief thinks a policeman a brick when he is hard pressed.

Young ladies are oftener taken for wives for their pa's value than at their par value.

"Waist makes want," said the young husband when his wife asked him to buy her a $15 pair of corsets.

An amateur musician's first thought on being asked to perform is to decline. First thoughts are always best.

The youth who woos and wins a girl at the rink will find it but a few steps from roller skates to the roller-pin.

Aince is said to have bought a new play, entitled "Mistaken Identity." Probably she will wear street clothes in it half the time.

Mr. Evert's hat gets much attention from the press. Yet it is what is under the hat that has brought it into such prominence.

Musical instruments are now made of paper. Now, if we can induce the cornet players to keep goats our happiness will be assured.

A college paper says that fifteen Yale students are training for a champion nine. We suppose the object of the training is to reduce themselves to the required number.

The latest song is entitled, "Oh Kiss me Once and Let Me Die." The sentiment would seem to imply that the osculator was inordinately fond of onions.

A husband who was extoling his personal powers to his wife, was suddenly kissed by the latter. "What is that for?" he asked. "I'm giving a kiss for a blow," she replied.

"Iced goat" is the name given by barkeepers in New York to their latest concoctions. It is composed of goat's milk, gin and lemon peel, with a due addition of sugar and ice. It is said that the dudes bleat for the new beverage.

Handling this language of ours is like feeling with a two-edged sword. Mention a man's eagle eye and he'll puff up like a pouter pig-con with gratified vanity; but speak of his parrot nose, and he'll knock you buzzing into the wood box.

Every dog has his day, the cat takes the nights, the milkman and iceman takes the early morn hours, and the scissors grinder with his bell and the fruitman with his yawp takes the rest of a lifetime that is worth living.

Since Walt Whitman said that "Cleveland has a good supply of old-fashioned horse sense," a western paper has felt constrained to say "Neigh," and the Buffalo Express remembers him as a mare. We beg leave to add that it is a colt day when the paragraphs leave him alone.
